Free Line Dancing Lessons Fridays This May with Lady T
Line Dancing Party to Follow with County Line Performing

SOUTHOLD, NY – Dust off your boots and grab your dancing shoes! This May, Southold Historical Museum invites you to a special series of FREE Line Dancing Classes led by the talented and energetic Lady T (Terry Lou).

The series of free line dancing lessons will be held at 7:00PM on May 2, 9, and 16 at Southold Historical Museum's Reichert Family Barn on the grounds of the Maple Lane Campus, 55200 Main Rd., Southold, NY.

The lessons will culminate with a high-energy Line Dancing Party featuring live music by County Line — Long Island's own dance-centric country band, on Friday, May 23, at 7:00 PM. County Line delivers modern country, crossover hits, and southern rock, performed as true to the originals as possible for both dancing and listening pleasure. With a track record of opening for touring Nashville artists and even Rock & Roll Hall of Famers, County Line promises a toe tapping, boot-scootin' good time for all.

Lady T's journey into line dancing began over two decades ago, and she's been sharing her passion and upbeat energy with dancers ever since. Known for her fun, encouraging instruction and her love for country, pop, and classic tunes, Lady T will get you moving — whether you're brand new or a seasoned stepper. Her classes are full of joy, smiles, and community spirit!

All events are FREE and open to the public. Southold Historical Museum presents this event with support from Legislator Catherine Stark through the Suffolk County Department of Economic Development for Cultural Tourism and Film.

Whether you're looking to try something new, get some great exercise, or just have fun, this is your chance to connect, dance, and enjoy the rhythm of May. So come solo, bring a partner, or round up some friends — and join us every Friday in May for fun, friendship, and fantastic music!
